Haas selected senior citizen intern to Senator Cochran

BY D.C. HARVILL
A Waveland resident will spend the next week in Washington D.C. serving as a Senior Citizen Intern for U.S. Senator Thad Cochran.

Out of applicants from around the state, Norma Haas was selected to represent Mississippi in the Congressional Senior Citizen Intern Program. The program is an opportunity for senior citizens, over 60, to spend a week in the nation's capitol working in the office of their congressional sponsor.

While in Washington, Haas is scheduled to attend seminars and conferences on issues concerning senior citizens. She also will have the opportunity to meet legislators, members of the Washington press corps and to sample the city's cultural life.

"I'm delighted to accept this opportunity that gives me a chance to meet our legislators and discuss with them pending legislation. Hopefully I can come back with good news. I'll be paying close attention," Haas said.

Haas said she is particularly concerned about the Catastrophic Medicaid Bill, because it places an extra financial burden on senior citizens, and the "Notch Baby" Bill because it grants a smaller Social Security benefit to people born between certain dates.

To qualify for the program a

person must be active in senior citizens projects, exhibit leadership skills, be able to speak before groups, have prior vocation, education or experience that provides insight into the needs of senior citizens.

"I am very much interested in what is happening with Social Security," she said.

Haas, President of the Home-maker's Council of Hancock County, was asked to apply for the internship by Homemakers. She is a past president of the Hancock County Republican Women's Club.

One purpose of the program is for the participant to share the knowledge gained during the week.

"I don't know if they'll tell me where I am to share the information, but I will share it with anyone who is interested. I know I will share it with Homemakers and wherever senior citizens congregate," she said.

Disabled Veterans to install officers

The Disabled American Veterans Post 50 and auxiliary will host their annual installation of officers on May 26 at 7 p.m., 303 Union Street, Bay St. Louis. Members and guests are invited to attend.

Byrd pleads guilty to payroll forgeries

After pleading guilty to 14 counts of uttering forgery Friday, the former administrative assistant to Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. Circuit Judge Jerry O. Terry gave her "an opportunity to reprove your worth to the community."

Agreeing to a recommendation made by Assistant District Attorney DeWitt Allred, Circuit Terry suspended a 15 year prison sentence against Laurie Kiefer Byrd, 44.

She was put on five years probation and ordered to pay the city $10,399.13 in restitution.

Byrd admitted to forging

$9,287.66 in city payroll checks between Dec. 1986 and January 1989. The amount of restitution also includes $200 in remaindered pay advances and a sick leave deficit she had accrued.

She could have been sentenced to a maximum of 15 years in prison and fined $10,000 on each count.

The forgeries were discovered after discrepancies in the city's payroll account were found in a regular quarterly audit.

Byrd was placed on administrative suspension without pay.

Judge Terry denied a motion by Public Defender Nicholas M. Haas to grant Byrd a non-adjudicated sentence, under which her criminal record would have been clear after her probationary term was completed.

Frankiewicz said he agreed with Allred's recommendation but suggested that she should have to pay interest if allowed to make the restitution over a five-year period.

Byrd also was ordered to pay $457.50 to the county for court costs and Haas' fee. Half of that amount is to be paid in six months. The rest must be paid no longer than six months later.

Byrd, described as destitute and in ill health, said she plans to sell some personal property to pay the restitution. She said she may sell her house and move to Louisiana.

Had Byrd not pleaded guilty, the case would have been presented to the July Grand Jury.

In other court action this week:

Cyril Melton, 27, was sentenced to 10 years in prison after pleading guilty to manslaughter in the February death of Marjorie Lee, 35.

According to Melton's testimony, Lee died when she jumped from Melton's car and was struck by oncoming traffic.

The sentence is to be served concurrently with a 30-year sentence on federal kidnapping charges.

Jeffery Thomas, 25, received a three-year prison sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the Aug. 1988 death of Ronald Joseph "Truck" Henry.

John Galloway, 21, of Bay St. Louis, was sentenced to 20 years in prison after being found guilty of the June 1988 armed robbery of Shawn's Bait Shop in Bay St. Louis.

The Hancock County Chapter of American Red Cross will host a disaster service class Wednesday from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. in the Civil Defense conference room.

Jeanne Garcia, director, said the class is designed not only to train people in coping with a disaster, but also in disaster shelter management.

There are several locations used as shelters and about 10 volunteers are needed for each one. Garcia said the majority of the volunteers who have already been trained are elderly and Red Cross would like to encourage young people to be trained as well.

Training is offered about twice a year now, but more classes can be arranged if there is enough public interest. It is also helpful if the disaster volunteers have taken one of the other classes offered by Red Cross, such as first aid or CPR.

She said volunteers should expect to be called upon two to three times each year.

The shelters are mostly used when hurricanes hit the area, but may be used when there are fires, transportation accidents, disease epidemics, tornados or floods.

"We're ready to use shelters in any conditions where people have to leave their homes," Garcia stated.

Volunteers will learn what items should be brought to a shelter, how to register people using a shelter and even disaster follow-up skills through the currently offered class and other available.

"The type of people we would like to have are those who can handle registration and those with expertise in child care or food preparation and serving. We need nurses, people trained in CPR and EMTs if we can get them, but most of them are on call for other emergency service agencies during disasters. If all you can do is clean up or keep order, we still need you," she said.

"When you get to a shelter, people will take on duties, but it's hard to get volunteers because they don't want to commit themselves beforehand."

She also has had to call Red Cross personnel from other states to help with damage assessment and assistance applications following past storms, and she would like to get some volunteers who can

JUVENILE PROBLEM

Four juveniles have been turned over to the Hancock County Youth Court as the result of a May 12 rock-throwing incident.

Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn said the four were picked up near the Waveland Hospitality Center after two motorists complained about rocks and bricks being thrown at vehicles on US-90.

Dorn said the dispatcher took the reports at 11:20 p.m. and 11:45 p.m.

He said it is up to Youth Court authorities to decide whether the juveniles should be charged in the matter, but possible charges include malicious mischief and vandalism.

GUN FOUND ON STUDENT

Bay St. Louis Police turned a 13-year-old junior high student over to Hancock County Youth Court Thursday after a coach found a gun in the child's possession, according to Investigator Tom Burleson.

About 2:45 p.m., Bay Junior High Assistant Principal Gale McRaney reported to police that the gun, a .32 caliber pistol, had been found in a bag the student wore around his waist. The bag also contained a razor blade, Burleson said.

ALLIGATOR WARNING

A 7 to 8 foot alligator was spotted off-Beach Boulevard in the Sound on Friday near Coleman Avenue, Waveland. Mississippi Department of Wildlife officer Stanley Hamilton urges swimmers to use caution. He also said, if anyone spots the alligator to give the sheriff's office a call at 467-5101.

Committee fields suggestions to strengthen Catholic schools

The Diocese of Biloxi Study Committee on Catholic Schools established by Bishop Joseph Howze to examine the present situation of Catholic schools throughout the diocese and to propose recommendations for the future strengthening of the Catholic school mission met April 10.

In preparation for the meeting, committee members had gathered data on parish and school recruitment activities and a draft mission statement had been prepared, along with recommendations and ideas for fundraising. The committee was to focus its initial efforts on increasing Catholic school enrollment and income.

Earlier, the committee had agreed that the mission of the Catholic schools should be clearly defined and documented so that it would be understood by the school community and would serve as the focal point upon which goals and objectives, and actions to achieve them, are based.

Since its initial formation, in late January, the committee has felt a sense of urgency to respond quickly to two issues: finances and recruitment.

The following points were discussed:

1. An aggressive recruitment program is the most powerful form of fundraising. With increased enrollment comes increased income and a broadened financial support base.

2. Fiscal stability can be improved through the use of careful fiscal management practices and avoiding pitfalls and procedures which are not fiscally sound, and improved communications among those parish bodies and forums which should play a role in the school budget process.

3. Tuition should be established at a realistic level. Communities should be educated about tuition, and the cost of education should be kept in the forefront of discussions on tuition.

4. Development programs including endowments, trusts, major gift contributions offer the potential for a solid financial foundation for the future. Every school would be encouraged to initiate an aggressive development program aimed at establishing that foundation.

Audit shows MPC rates will remain unchanged

Mississippi Power Company customers will continue to enjoy some of the lowest electric rates in the nation, according to a Performance Evaluation Plan report that shows rates should remain at their present level.

The report for the first quarter of 1989 has been filed by MPC with the state Public Service Commission. The PSC uses the plan to set rates quarterly, basing rates on the company's financial condition and on how well the company is performing in seven areas of operation.

"The report for the first quarter scored our performance at above average and showed our financial condition was adequate," Ed Blakeslee, MPC's vice president of marketing said. "Based on this, the evaluation showed no need to increase or decrease rates."

Under the plan the company is rated each quarter on the frequency and duration of power outages, safety, rate comparisons with other utilities, customer satisfaction and how well generating plants are run.

Also, the company's return on equity, or the percentage of income the company has available to pay off debts and to pay stockholder dividends, is compared to an industry average.

The rate plan, which was put into effect by the PSC in 1986, was thrown out by the state Supreme Court earlier this year. However, the Mississippi Legislature passed a bill during its regular session allowing the PSC to continue to use the plan.

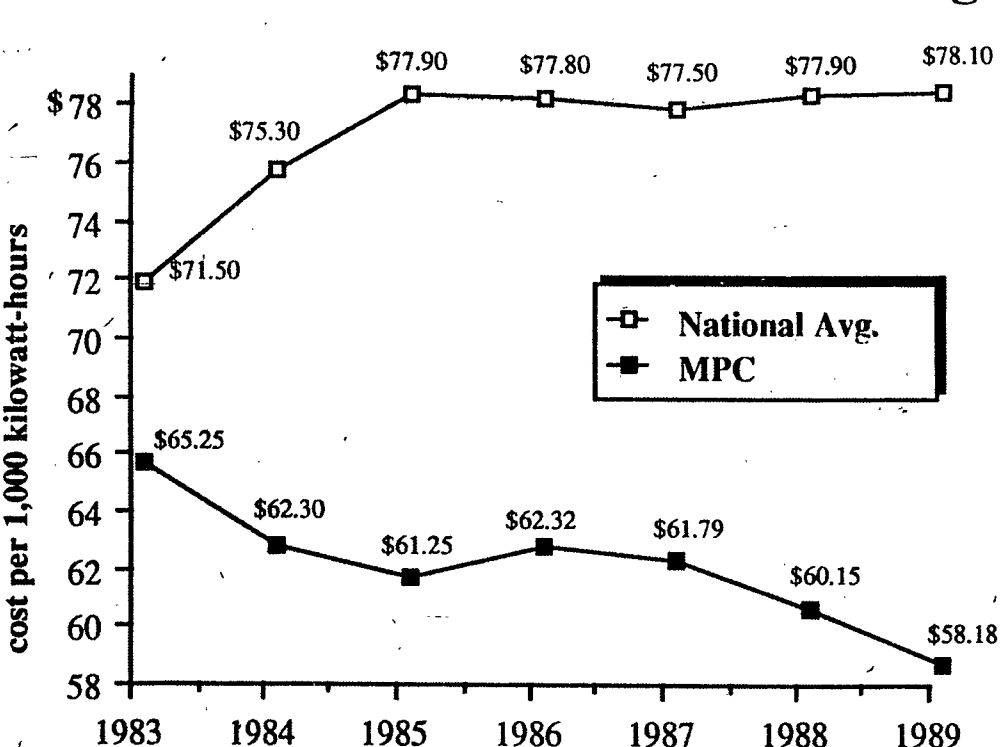

MPC is the only utility in the state the PSC has put under the plan.

"Our customers have seen the cost of 1,000 kilowatt-hours steadily decrease since 1983," Blakeslee said. "Today the customer pays almost 11 percent less for the same amount of electricity."

Blakeslee said that the utility's rates will have to change in response to the economy in the coming years, "but we are committed to keeping our rates as low as possible. The PEP plan has helped us do that as well as carefully watching our expenses and planning ahead."

Mississippi Power Company serves more than 174,000 customers in 23 counties in southeast Mississippi.

MPC Electric Rates vs. National Average

Since 1983 MPC's rates have decreased 10.8% while electric rates nationally have increased 9.2%.

Three arrested on drug charges

BY DENA BISNETTE

Two Hancock County men and a Louisiana resident have been arrested and charged with drug violations as a result of a cooperative investigation by Waveland Police Department and Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said those arrested included Ronald Larry Morris, 47, of 809 South St., Waveland; John L. McClendon, 22, of P.O. Box 2144, Reserve, La.; and David Keith Gillam, 19, Rt. 2, Box 773 (Seventh Street), Bay St. Louis.

All three were charged with possession of marijuana with intent to sell or deliver, the sheriff said. Bond was set at $10,000, but the men remained jailed late Friday and Peterson said they are not expected to bond out.

They were arrested at 10:45 a.m. Friday at Morris' residence after the execution of a search warrant issued by Justice Court Judge Joseph Dobson. Peterson said the warrant was obtained following an unspecified surveillance of the house which began after a confidential informant contacted authorities.

Items confiscated included a wrecker Morris used for his business, Ronnie's Wrecker Service; 68 bags of marijuana, one .38 caliber pistol, one .22 caliber rifle, scales and assorted drug paraphernalia, Peterson added.

He said investigators are looking into the possibility that the wrecker may have been used to transport marijuana.

In addition, the sheriff stated that while he was at the house, he took seven telephone calls from people apparently seeking to obtain marijuana.

"They'd ask for Ronnie, and of course, my name is Ronnie too, so I'd get on the phone and say, 'Hey, man,' he said.

Peterson said the seven callers then went on to ask, 'What you got for me?' and he invited them to come over.

He said one actually did show up and investigators took a statement from him.

Sheriff's Department Investigator Glen Strong and Waveland Police Department Investigator Sandra Henley are in charge of the continuing investigation.

Participating in the execution of the warrant were, in addition to Peterson and the two investigators, Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn and Officers Jimmy Varnell and David Stepro, and Sheriff's Department Investigators Delbert Seay and Nathan Hoda and Deputies George Burleson and Mike Hannah.

Senator Stennis speaks at reunion at NASA center

Friday, retired U.S. Sen. John C. Stennis spoke to a reunion of "old timers" at the NASA center in Hancock County named for him just one year ago tomorrow.

Some 500 employees and retirees of the Stennis Space Center turned out for the second annual Old Timers' Day celebration which commemorates the 26th anniversary of the beginning of construction of the center at the onset of the Apollo program.

Stennis Director Roy Eteess recognized the 87-year-old senator at the reunion in honor of his personal contributions to the space program, and specifically the Stennis Center, during the course of his 41 years of service to the nation and state.

Stennis led the efforts for the creation of the NASA center in Mississippi, and since then has strongly supported its programs while currently working toward assuring America's preeminence in space.

On May 20, 1988, President Reagan signed an executive order naming the NASA center for the senator. The president wrote of Stennis in that order, "Senator Stennis has served his country as United States senator for over 40 years and has steadfastly supported the nation's space program since its inception. He has demonstrated visionary leadership and has consistently worked to assure United States world leadership and preeminence in space."

The reunion was specifically intended to bring together those past and present NASA and contractor employees who have devoted more than 20 years of service at the space center, originally built to test the first and second stages of the powerful Saturn V rocket which took men to the moon, the construction effort was the largest such effort in Mississippi's history and the second largest construction project in the country, following the construction of the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

Stennis now employs more than 5,400 people and is the home of 18 federal and state agencies engaged in environmental, oceanographic and defense-related activities. The center is also the nation's premiere testing ground for flight certifying all of the main engines which power the Space Shuttle during its first eight and a half minutes of flight.

During his visit to the space center, Senator Stennis met with senior NASA staff and agency heads of the Navy and Army organizations located here.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I wonder how many of you have noticed the lights on the Ulman Avenue pier which are now being installed. It is a nice improvement to the pier, especially for those of us who like to fish or walk on the quarter-mile long pier at night.

There are usually some folks fishing on the pier just about every month of the year. Fishing should be getting good off the pier within the next few weeks as live bait becomes more plentiful in the area.

I hope to try my luck sometime within the next few weeks.

It is amazing to hear the number of families who have been served by the Hancock County Food Pantry in three years of operation.

The Food Pantry celebrated their third anniversary on May 18, and they have helped 2,392 families. The families included some 8,240 people.

There are so many people who have made this community-involved venture a success, and it really takes many folks when you consider the areas of help needed for the Food Pantry to operate.

The organizers, the workers from the area churches, the students of our schools, merchants, elected officials, trustees, clubs, organizations and individuals have all contributed their time and energy to make this very worthwhile venture a success.

We wish the Food Pantry further success in the years ahead and thank each and everyone for their help.

The May Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition will be held Thursday at 7:30 a.m. at the Waveland Resort Inn.

Special speaker for the program will be Helene S. Roth who heads the county's literacy program.

Literacy is a problem in our community just as it is in communities across our nation.

Roth, who was hired by the Hancock County Library System in 1987 when a grant was received for a part-time coordinator.

Since then state and federal grants have made it possible for that position to be full-time.

In addition to the literacy program at the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis, there are satellites in Kiln, Waveland, Clermont Harbor, Pearlington, Diamondhead and Dedeaux.

The program can still use help from business and the general public, and it is hoped there will be a large number of persons in attendance Thursday to find out how.

We hope to see you at the Morning Edition.

Educational changes necessary to give your youth edge

Years ago when many of us went to school, things seemed a lot simpler than today. All you really needed were books, a few supplies and a teacher, classroom and chalk board.

We live in a much different world today.

The place of learning has accelerated greatly, and our competitors around the world are educating their work forces as never before. Our country no longer has a corner on the market when it comes to skilled, high-paying jobs.

Today our children need an edge, and that's exactly what we are trying to give them here in Mississippi.

In fact, we recently announced a program to make Mississippi the first state in the country to have a computer reading and writing lab in every single elementary school.

Our goal is to make sure every child in Mississippi public schools knows how to read and write by the time they leave the first grade!

It is almost impossible to imagine the impact that this will have on Mississippi. If we can reach these children at the very start of the learning process, Mississippi could have one of the most literate, if not the most literate, citizens anywhere by the time those students graduate from public schools.

That kind of investment in education is a strong signal to businesses around the world. It says that business can expect a capable, well schooled work force should they come to Mississippi. Just as important, it will open the door to a healthier, happier, more prosperous life for countless Mississippians who might otherwise suffer because they cannot read or write.

What also makes this program so significant is that it represents a true partnership between the public and private sectors.

Out of a total cost of $13 million, private foundations have pledged to raise $7 million. Mississippi's legislative leadership—Lt. Gov. Brad Dye, House Speaker Tim Ford, and the Appropriations and Education committee chairman in both chambers—are committed to seeking $1.5 million a year in state funds to match the private money. It will work with them in that effort.

Computers have been used effectively throughout the country to teach children to read and write. A number of Mississippi school districts already use computers with tremendous results.

In some cases, children who have used computer labs write compound sentences, use punctuation and do things that first graders in my day would not normally have done.

Some schools will start receiving the computers this fall, making this program part of a "triple crown" of education improvements underway in Mississippi this year.

Earlier this year, the Legislature took a giant step toward

"What a bore! We talked for a solid hour and all she ever said was 'I see' and 'yes' and 'of course!'"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Exorbitant cost of Congress must be cut!

To the Editor:

Wake up America, you're being had!

This time it's not the Com-mies or Noriega or any other foreigner...it's our own Congress.

In a time of budget cut-backs, restraints, Graham-Rudman juggling, etc., the proposed budget to operate Congress for the next fiscal year will be increased 17 percent to $2.5 billion, that's 2.5 billion dollars!

Also, their "free" mail budget goes up from $68 million to $114 million. That should mean more letters in your box telling you what a great job they're doing. Our Congress employs a staff of 20,000 housed in 12 office buildings...quite an army. Their chief staff numbers are paid $89,000 per year.

Yet one-third of the Congressional payroll goes to retired members of Congress who voted themselves early (after six years service) and very generous pensions (a few receive over $100,000).

These are the officials we elected to serve us...but their "needs" come first. And these are the same people who decide to cut spending for the poor, education, the military and veterans, the elderly and so on.

Every penny they spend is pure expense—not one cent houses the homeless, helps pay for anyone's surgery, does research for humans, animals, or agriculture. It doesn't even help pay the administrative bureaucracy.

That means each of the 535 members of Congress costs $4.5 million a year to maintain. Wouldn't you agree this is now gotten way out of balance?

We need a grass roots movement to put restraints on spending by and for Congress. Let's give the President a line-item veto to curb unnecessary waste of tax dollars.

What civic club will start a petition: The Chamber, The Rotary, perhaps The Sea Coast Echo will lead other newspapers in such a worthy endeavor.

Regardless, it's a priority that's time has come before we're saddled with even more taxes or debts.

Regards,

Royce P. Kaupp

Festival sponsors seek to promote city's image

To the Editor:

In response to Mr. Taylor's letter to the editor in the Sea Coast Echo on Thursday, May 18:

The Beachfront Festival, sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Business Association, does not promote or earn money for the businesses that sponsor the event. The festival promotes the city and the image of Bay St. Louis in its entirety.

The members of the association who work to make the Beachfront Festival possible (for the entertainment of all) do not, for the most part, have businesses on Beach Boulevard. They are owners of retail businesses, private citizens and professional people from all over the city and from Waveland. There are doctors, lawyers, insurance executives, real estate brokers, bankers, oceanographers, consultants, CPAs and retail merchants, as well as others too numerous to mention.

These people who lead your community and work for you and your children's future are not working this hard to keep you from walking on streets for which you pay to maintain.

Events like the Beachfront Festival enable the association to help make your city a more beautiful place in which to live. It helps make the "concerts in the Park" possible. It enables you, Mr. Taylor, to be proud of the city in which you live.

We realize that blocking off one and one-half blocks of Beach Boulevard on a Sunday afternoon is an inconvenience, and that your right to walk this street is violated for about 4-5 hours, but we ask that you make this small sacrifice in view of the benefits you will gain.

Thank you for your view, Mr. Taylor, and we sincerely hope to see you at the Beachfront Festival just as we see you at all of the Concerts in the Park. We know that, with better understanding of the situation, you will want to show positive support for the benefit of all.

Sincerely,

Ruth R. Thompson,

Waveland

Read a book for superior entertainment

To the Editor:

Reading stimulates the imagination. Tonight, try turning off the TV and opening a book. The selection is much better than the listing in the TV Guide, even with cable. You schedule the interruptions with a book. Suspense is not manufactured with commercial breaks. You aren't going to miss vital plot information when the telephone or doorbell rings. No one is going to obstruct your view of your book; and the volume is always just right.

Borrowing from the library is good; but you have to give the book back. If the book is your own, you can write in comments, or underline favorite passages. With your own book, you can read in the bathtub without worry about destruction of public property.

Books make great gifts. Shopping for books is a pleasant activity. You don't have to guess the size, or worry about the color or being right. No pushy saleswoman will try to convince you that this slim volume is "you." You don't have to worry about it going with someone's house—books go with any decor.

Next time you're looking for a gift for a child, or a friend, or for yourself, go to a bookstore. It's a place where you really can browse.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Festival goal is to provide entertainment at modest price

To the Editor:

The 10th Anniversary of the Beachfront Festival is on the front burner and almost ready to serve up a day of music, food, antiques, arts, crafts and fun.

Behind all of the fun and frolic is the purpose of building a better city through commitment and community involvement.

For the first time in the history of the festival, there will be a minimum charge to attend, but the association wants to be sure that the public understands why the admission fee is being added.

The nominal $2 admission, for those between the ages of 13 and 60 will be used for the following:

1. to provide more and better entertainment,
2. to help the festival become self-supporting,
3. to award over $200 in cash as door prizes to festival goers, and

4. most important, to have funds to be used for the improvement of Bay St. Louis, in beautification and other projects.

Activities such as the annual Beachfront Festival, Concerts in the Park, public political forums, arranging tour groups to the city, Christmas Day in the Bay, annual Sportsman's Swap and planting of trees in the city are all sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Business Association. This organization is non-profit, but even more important, it is a positive builder in the community.

Public support of association activities continue to grow and the association is happy to provide another event that everyone can enjoy.

Sincerely,
Jim Thompson

Hancock Food Pantry has served 8,420

To the Editor:

The Hancock County Food Pantry is three years old! The first day of operation was May 19, 1986.

In this three-year period, 2,392 families, 8,420 people, have received emergency supplies of food. Most of this number were hungry children.

This important work could not have been accomplished without our faithful volunteers, who have given so many hours to the pantry. We want all of them to know that each and every one of them is very much appreciated.

Sincere thanks is extended to all the churches, organizations and other good friends of the pantry who have so generously given food and cash.

Thanks to the board of supervisors for providing space for the pantry to operate and to the sheriff's department for "man-power" from their trustees.

Bobby Boudin and his staff at Civil Defense have always been there for us day in and day out to provide any needed assistance. Thanks, Bobby!

The people of Bay St. Louis and Hancock County are the finest in the world. This is the reason so many families in our own area have received help in times of dire need.

Beachfront Festival is not planned as moneymaker

Dear Editor:

On Thursday, May 18, the Sea Coast Echo printed a letter from Mr. William Taylor concerning the Beachfront Festival. Mr. Taylor objects to the blocking off of two blocks of the beach and the charging of admission for the festival—and I can certainly understand these objections, given the misunderstanding of the festival that he displays.

The Beachfront Festival is sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Business Association. It is not primarily a money-raising event, but more an opportunity to attract people to our downtown area. In this we have been very successful, with more than half the cars parked for this event coming from out of state.

Very few of the businesses involved in the festival are in a position to make money from the activities of the day. (Certainly, there will be few prospective dieters in the crowd!) Rather, they give up their time and money freely in order to make this a memorable event for all. The money raised by the association goes toward sponsoring the free concerts in the City Hall Park, beautifying Main Street, and other activities which benefit our community as a whole.

Friends, Bay St. Louis is a wonderful city, with a great deal of natural beauty. Surely we citizens can sacrifice one afternoon out of 365 to show it off for the rest of the world to see and appreciate. I'll be looking forward to seeing you all there.

Information sought on Hancock/Pearl River boundaries

Dear Editor,

I've written so many offices in both counties and in the state capitol trying to obtain the exact date (in 1908) when the south boundary of Pearl River County was extended farther south, taking in more area from Hancock County.

No one seemed to know! I'll bet 99 percent of the residents in both counties don't know.

I think I know the dates and boundaries involved in 1817 to 1890 (except 1872-78).

I sure would appreciate any help you may be able to give me in filling in the blanks. Thanks so very much!

Every community needs a theatre

I have always enjoyed community theatre and have had a chance to see several productions lately.

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, Waveland Players, Center Stage—if I am acquainted with anyone in it, I will go watch a show. It doesn't matter how good it is. These are amateur productions and the effort is what counts.

Theatre is one of only a few activities for which I will go out of my way. Not too long ago, I even went 112 miles north to watch a friend of mine in a production of "Inherit the Wind."

That's going out of your way to see something, especially when the man only had about four pages of lines. However, I also knew most of the principle actors and several bit players, which made the trip even more worthwhile.

There is something about watching someone you know personally, someone who is not a professional actor, working up there on the stage. It's that same intangible you can't name but you know you love when you watch a child of your acquaintance playing Little League ball.

I firmly believe every community should have a local theatre group and, if possible, a children's theatre as well. There's something for everyone to do there, and acting isn't necessary.

Once I knew a shy woman who wouldn't have been caught dead on a stage, but she volunteered for as many high school productions as possible; she was always there with her paintbrush doing the detail work on the set.

Another classmate was a first-rate lighting technician, but you couldn't have paid him to stand in the back of a crowd scene.

They liked what they were doing and wouldn't have traded it for anything.

I have served as a rehearsal partner, painted set, handled props, pulled curtains, helped sew costumes, done make-up, dressed chorus girls, dressed children for a dance recital when I was still in junior high myself, written publicity, hung up posters, written reviews, assisted in directing a student play, rewritten lines, turned pages for a piano player and even appeared on stage once.

I cherish each and every experience.

I'm not very active in theatre right now except as a spectator, but when I finish college next year, I have plans. For the time being, rehearsals are always in the evenings and so are my classes.

Since I can't do much myself, I'm encouraging everyone I can to try it at least once.

I owe my love of theatre to Dad. My mother says she originally got him to try out for a college production because he was shy about speaking in public, and he quickly got hooked on acting.

I like him best in musicals and comedies. He has done a few dramas but there was nothing for him to do.

I should know. I started reading lines with him from the time I was about seven or so and he played Oscar in "The Odd Couple." I didn't stop until I moved here, and I miss it. Everyone else in the house thought it was just too boring, but to me it was special.

I attended dress rehearsals until I was in college, when I was only home on weekends and ended up seeing the actual performance.

Dad keeps saying he's going to give up little theatre. He did once, for about five years. Then he did about 14 farewell performances, declaring each to be "the last play I'm going to do." This time, he has been out about two years, but he'll go back just as I always go back to college.

I never asked Dad if he realized that I have never met a person who has been involved in a theatrical production who does not want to do another one.

The people I meet in theatre productions are usually very at ease in dealing with others, whether they're talking to someone they know or a stranger. Some say this is because theatre attracts outgoing people, but I like to believe it helps bring out these natural qualities.

As the commercial used to say, "Try it, you'll like it." If you don't want to try it, at least go and applaud those who do.

I might be applauding with you. And if I am, no matter what show I'm watching, I'll be remembering the same thing—running lines with Dad.

Thanks Dad. You may have been desperate for a rehearsal partner, but you gave one of your kids an important gift. I hope I can pass it on to other people.

Bay Area Youth Soccer slates annual election

The Bay Area Youth Soccer annual meeting and election of officers and commissioners will be Sunday, June 11 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Clare School cafeteria.

Officers and commissioners serve a two-year term with off-set elections each year. Three commissioners and a vice-president will be elected this year.

The nominating committee has submitted the following names for consideration: for vice president, Ronnie LaFontaine and Craig Foster; and for commissioner, Richard Flowers, Steve Carver, Milton Bernard, Eddie Farve, Tom Demboski and Alan Kingston.

Ronnie LaFontaine is the incumbent vice president seeking re-election, and Richard Flowers is an incumbent commissioner seeking re-election.

In addition to the above slate of candidates, anyone interested in being considered for election may submit a petition with at least five BAYS members' signatures to the membership chairman, Timmy Kingston by Friday.

Any coach having league equipment to turn in should also notify Timmy Kingston at 467-9813. All parents, coaches, referees and sponsors are encouraged to attend this annual meeting and anyone interested in coaching next year should attend this meeting.

Association offers summer program

The Hancock County Recreation Association will offer a two-session summer program geared to the first through seventh grade youngsters.

The first session will be at Waveland Elementary School from Monday, June 12 through July 7. The second session will be at Bay Junior High School from July 10 through Aug. 4. It will be a morning program running from 9 a.m. to noon. The school breakfast and lunch programs will also be held during this time frame so the youngsters can come for breakfast, stay for the fun, have lunch and then go home, or they may come for any part of these separate programs.

The program will run three days a week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Offered are "Kiddie Crafts" one morning a week, tap dance lessons by a certified instructor, movies (with popcorn and drinks provided) and board games. Also scheduled are many special event programs including the U.S. Customs dogs, the fire department, Officer Friendly, the County Extension Service, story hours, puppet show and making puppets and at least one field trip during each session.

There is a $20 fee for each session ($5 per week) but the meals are free. Flyers will be sent to the schools on Monday, or parents may register their children by calling Waveland Elementary School and leaving their name and address and the association will send them a registration flyer.

It is planned to expand this program every summer to make summer an exciting learning experience for as many children as possible.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Remember the old gal in the TV commercials who went around demanding "Where's the Beef?" Well, she wouldn't have to ask that question just now around here—for the meat counters at area supermarkets are all but overflowing with beef, and at special prices, too.

And, there are cuts large and small, to suit just about every taste and every meat budget. For instance, if you opt for steak, there's a choice for everyone at the "Great Steaks" special now going on at Jitney Jungle—boneless beef round and sirloin tip steaks, along with bone-in round steaks.

I won't presume to tell you how to broil or grill or pan fry your steak. I like sirloin steak medium rare, seared swiftly in a Satan-hot heavy black iron skillet that's been sprinkled with salt. But, here's a classic recipe for sirloin.

STEAK AU POIVRE

2" thick top sirloin steak
1 1/2 Tbsp. peppercorns (crushed, coarse-ground or seasoned pepper may be substituted in lesser amounts)
Salt as desired
Butter
Press the pepper firmly into both sides of the steak, using the heel of the hand. Let the steak stand for half to three-quarters of an hour. Then grill over a medium fire for 6 to 8 minutes on each side or broil two inches below high heat.

Remove the steak to a hot platter, sprinkle with salt and place a large chunk of sweet butter atop. Let this melt and run over the surface before carving, or flame it with Cognac before serving.

Serve with boiled new potatoes rolled in butter and minced tarragon or parsley. (From Woman's Day Collector's Cook Book)

Or, if roast is your choice, take a look at those beef roasts on special at National, appetizing boneless rump and eye of the round. Cube and bottom round steaks are also on special sale.

Braising (slow-cooking in just a bit of liquid) is one of my favorite ways to make a round steak tender as can be. The steak is first browned in a minimum of oil in a heavy skillet, then cooked, covered, atop the stove in a minimum of liquid, such as water, wine, stock or such. Here's:

BRAISED ROUND STEAK

3 lbs. round steak
1 bell (green) pepper, cut in strips
1/2 cup cooking oil
1 small can mushrooms

2 tomatoes, quartered or cut smaller
1 tsp. each oregano, thyme
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup wine, beef bouillon or tomato juice

Pepper, salt, cayenne to taste
Dash of hot pepper sauce
First, I drizzle lemon juice and oil over both sides of the steak, and marinate for a half hour or so in a non-metallic bowl or container. Then I remove it from the marinade, and rub it with the seasonings, including the garlic.

Heat the oil in a heavy skillet, and brown the steak well on both sides, over medium heat. Add the other ingredients, and pour your choice of liquid over all. Simmer until the steak is tender, and serve with rice or noodles or potatoes.

And, if you want to think ahead—and be prepared for the long Memorial Day Weekend (coming up for next weekend) you might want to take advantage of the ham specials at Winn-Dixie. Fully cooked whole ham, as well as shank portions and whole picnic hams, are offered at bargain prices.

Even if yours is a small family, a ham is such a good investment in good and easy meals, isn't it? I like to score the ham, stud it with cloves, give it a brown sugar and mustard overcoat, and baste it with burgundy wine, orange or apple juice or whatever I'm in the mood for, and have on hand, as it bakes.

Sometimes I ask the butcher to cut the ham in two sections, for varied use; sometimes I ask him to cut off a thick center slice, which I bake with sliced sweet potatoes and sliced apples—oh, there are so many ways to use up a ham, all of them delicious.

"Younger than Springtime"—that's how the old song goes; and the fresh new crops of vegetables crowding each other at the produce counters are young and tender and fresh, good to look at as well as to devour in various ways!

Jitney Jungle features the "new crop of green cabbage, home grown in Mississippi" with its many uses. Vidalia onions are still stars at Jitney Jungle and Delchamps, so enjoy them while you can, for their so short and sweet season ends all too soon.

And the zucchini is everywhere. I think that almost everyone must be cooking it. I was stopped several times in the stores, to answer questions about recipe suggestions, and the phone's been busy!

And that young, tender yellow summer squash, and so on! I like to slice young, tender yellow squash and zucchini, along with vidalia onions (or other onions) add just a few, few drops of water, season and top with lemon slices, then cook over so briefly, covered, over low heat. Delicious!

And, if I've any left over, I stir it all together again, chop bits of Monterey Jack or pepper cheeses (for extra tang) and add some bread crumbs—and a bit of oil or butter if absolutely necessary, and end up with a sort of stove-top casserole without heating up the oven, or the house.

And the corn, let's not forget the sweet golden corn! Why not combine it with summer squash and ripe tomatoes in:

COLACHE (Summer Squash, Mexican Style)

4 summer squash
4 ears of corn
3 ripe tomatoes
1/4 cup butter
1 small onion, chopped

Pepper, salt to taste
Cut squash in small pieces, and cut the corn kernels from the cob. Skin the tomatoes and cut in cubes. Heat the butter in a saucepan, stir in the onion, and cook until limp but not brown.

Add the squash, corn tomatoes, pepper and salt, and cover and cook over low heat for 30 to 40 minutes, stirring occasionally. (Six servings). (From The American Heritage Cookbook)

Winning national beef recipe features marinated barbecued ribs

The National Beef Cook-Off, the second largest cook-off in the nation, was held in Jackson last year. This year's state contests throughout the country are now starting, but publicity about last year's national contest continues to pile up.

Coverage of the 1988 NBCO blanketed the U.S., spreading favorable publicity for beef and Mississippi in 50 states plus Canada, according to a recent evaluation.

News releases were sent from the Beef Industry Council, the Meat Board Test Kitchens and local NBCO publicity chairmen to generate entries, publicize the cook-off and announce the state, regional and national winners with their recipes.

Forty of 50 top newspapers in the country have featured articles about the cook-off. Overall, 4,400 print placements about the cook-off have appeared nationwide, resulting in more than 360 million consumer impressions of the contest, beef and Mississippi.

A video news report, transmitted nationwide immediately following the cook-off, aired 180 times. In addition, news stories were generated with Mississippi TV Network and Cable News Network. Radio news releases, transmitted to AP/UP radio network nationwide, were broadcast by an estimated 350 radio stations using information about the 1988 NBCO.

The 1988 NBCO went international for the first time when eight chefs and agriculture specialists from Japan attended the cook-off and points of interest in Mississippi and U.S. Now, the NBCO has crossed the Pacific as the U.S. Meat Export Federation (USMEF) will conduct a beef cook-off in Japan, publicizing NBCO recipes along the way through print and television coverage. The Japanese contest will be patterned after the U.S. event.

The Japanese consumer winner won't be a competitor in Portland, Oregon, but will receive an all-expense-paid trip to the NBCO, where he/she will add interest to the U.S. event and help generate additional media coverage.

Accompanying the winner to the contest will be several influential members of the Japanese media. This exciting cooperative project with USMEF will continue to help the American beef industry develop an important foreign market for beef.

The overall "Best of Beef" award at the 1988 NBCO in Jackson went to John Michels from Minnesota for his "Oriental Short Rib Barbecue." With warmer weather here you may want to get out the grill and try this prize-winning recipe featuring a lesser-used, under cut of beef.

Here's the $15,000 recipe:

ORIENTAL SHORT RIB BARBECUE

Preparation time: 15 min.
Marinating time: 4-6 hours
Cooking time: 10-12 min.

4 pounds beef short ribs, trimmed of excess fat and cut no more than 3/8 to 1/2-inch thick*
2/3 cup thinly sliced green onions
1/2 cup each soy sauce and water
1/4 cup Oriental dark-roasted sesame oil
2 1/2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons toasted

sesame seeds, crushed
1 tablespoon each minced garlic and grated fresh ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground red pepper
1/8 teaspoon freshly ground Szechuan peppercorns
Fresh mild red chili peppers
Green onions
Radish roses
Combine sliced green onions, soy sauce, water, sesame oil, brown sugar, sesame seeds, garlic, ginger, red peppers and Szechuan peppercorns.

Place beef short ribs and marinade in plastic bag or utility dish, turning to coat. Close bag securely or cover dish and marinate in refrigerator 4 to 6 hours, turning occasionally.

Remove ribs from marinade; reserve marinade. Place ribs on grid over medium coals. Broil 5 to 6 minutes. Turn ribs over, brush or spoon on mari-nade one time.

Cover and continue cooking 5 to 6 minutes or until desired degree of doneness. Place ribs on platter, garnish with chili peppers, green onions and radish roses. 6 servings.

*Beef short ribs, cut 3/8 to 1/2 inch thick may be special-ordered from your meat retailer.

Szechuan peppercorns are available in the imported (Oriental) section of the supermarket. Freshly ground black pepper may be substituted for Szechuan peppercorns.

Test about 4 inches above coals for medium with 4-second hand count.

'Sentenced to Read'

Offering a new opportunity to troubled youth

BY DENA BISNETTE

Young people who violate laws or are designated "status offenders" by the Hancock County Youth Court have a new opportunity to learn.

"Sentenced to Read," a program which has been operating for about six weeks in Hancock County, provides training in basic reading, math and job-hunting skills. However, it is open only to young people sent there by court order, Hancock County Attendance Officer Frank McNeil stated.

It also offers an alternative to punitive sentences, which may not be necessary for many of the children who pass through the court system.

"Not all of them are delinquents. Some are status offenders," he said, explaining that status offenders are children with chronic but unnecessary absences from school, drop-outs of the ages covered by the Mississippi compulsory education law or children the judge classifies as being in need of supervision.

The program may be required in addition to regular school attendance, in the case of children who are in danger of dropping out but have not yet done so.

After the tutoring is finished, the program can provide up to 20 hours of incentive pay to an employer who hires a "Sentenced to Read" participant.

"The only bad thing about this is that we're not going to be able to take all of the kids who should be in it," McNeil commented.

Those who are "sentenced to read" are ages 14 to 21 and falls under the wing of Bobbie Varvel, a paraprofessional who also serves as a basic skills instructor, and Project Coordinator Tina Griffin.

With funding provided through Job Training Partnership Act under the administration of Gulf Coast Business Corporation, they set up the program in Hancock County April 1 and by April 12 Varvel had her first student.

Varvel and Griffin work for Minact, Inc., a Job Training Partnership Act program which operates a Basic Skills for Employment Center in Gulfport and is based in Jackson. Since its establishment in 1978, Minact has established regional operations in seven states.

The program is a spin-off of the original "Sentenced to Read," established as an alternative sentencing method in Kentucky by Dr. C.J. Bailey. Bailey visited Youth Court Judge Michael Haas Sr. and McNeil about the program, which is the only one in the county currently targeting it particular age group.

Varvel sometimes works with a single student, but when working with groups tries to keep them small, preferably with no more than three. Although she believes working in groups can improve her students' concentration, she also wants to be able to give each one personal attention.

As in tutoring programs, Varvel begins by giving the student a diagnostic test in order to determine current grade level in reading and math. Lessons, however, work up to some practical exercises not found in regular school courses.

"It's all practical because it's all things these young people will have to do to function in the job market and in life," she said, showing a stack of exercises which include lessons on balancing a checkbook, figuring discount percentages, writing a business letter and filling out a standard job application.

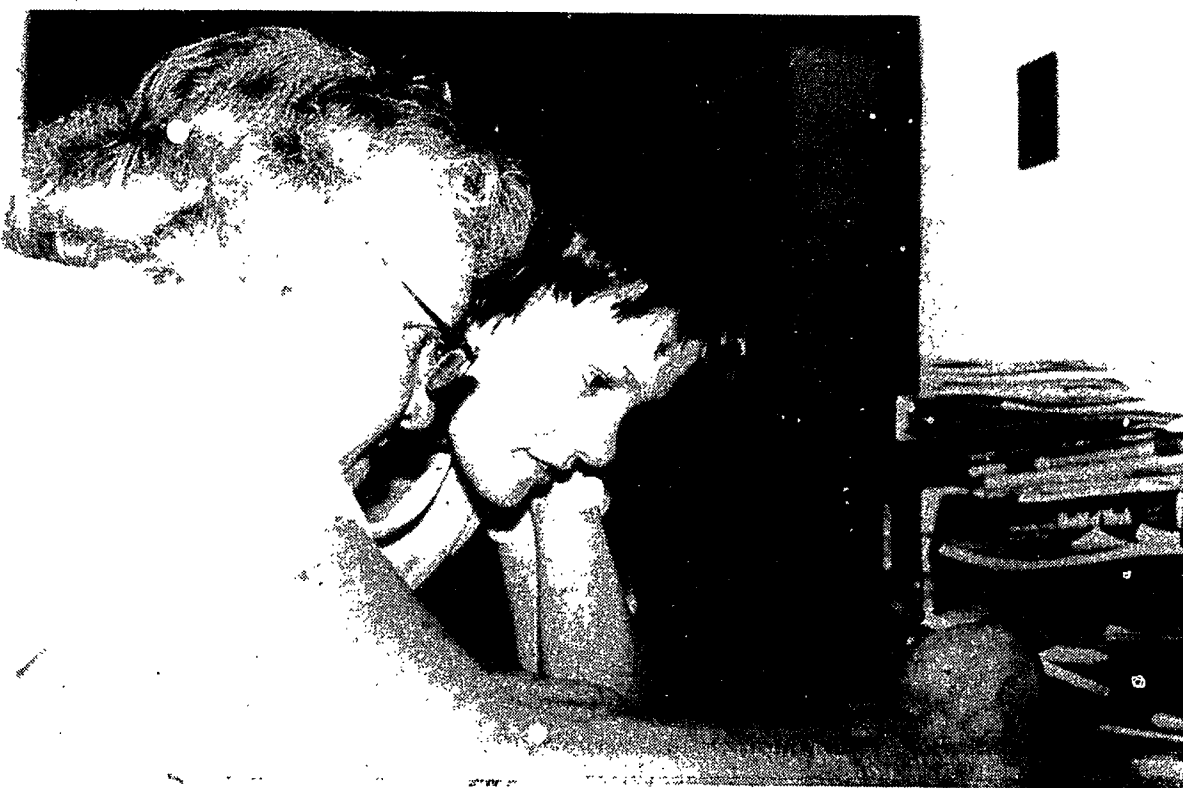

Her students benefit from the individual attention in more ways than one.

"A lot of these are status offenders or kids who just can't get along in school," she said, explaining that many students who are discipline problems in a regular classroom find themselves in a different situation when she works with them.

"I can see progress," she said, "especially with Sally." Varvel pointed out 19-year-old Sally

"I enjoy this more than I did when I was in school," she added, pointing out her lessons. "Miss Bobbie has helped me a

Pridemore, who in 50 hours of tutoring raised her reading scores two grade levels and her math scores a half-level. "I would say she is very functional now, but she had been reading below second grade level."

"She is so much more self-confident; she realizes now she can do it."

Pridemore, though only 19, already has three children and dropped out of school six years ago. She gave her current address as "the jail," where she is serving a shoplifting sentence. When she came to the Hancock County Youth Court to discuss custody of her children during her time in jail, she was placed in the "Sentenced to Read" program.

Now, for the first time in her life, Pridemore is making plans for her future.

"I'm planning on getting my GED and going to Job Corps, if I can get in. I think maybe I'll be a beautician," she said.

lot."

Varvel teaches her students social skills in addition to practical skills.

"It's actually a lot of things we take for granted, but we're teaching what it takes to make a well-rounded person," she said.

Griffin said each student is subject to a six-month follow-up, both to monitor progress and provide referrals to other programs, such as GED, if needed.

Just in case they are asked for a referral by a youngster who has dropped out of school but does not qualify for "Sentenced to Read," Varvel and Griffin keep close at hand the name and telephone number of another agency, Youth Transition Service at 864-9023.

"The main key is caring. They need that extra push from someone who cares, someone who's not family," Varvel added.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a 'Morning Edition Coffee' Thursday, May 25 at 7:30 a.m. at the Waveland Resort Inn on U.S. 90.

Adult literacy coordinator Helene Roth will be the featured speaker. Her topics will include the illiteracy problem in Hancock County and its effect on business and industry, the rams and methods by which the business community can assist these programs.

Roth was hired by the Hancock County Library System in 1987 as part-time literacy coordinator, after having volunteered as a literacy tutor since 1985.

State and federal grants have enabled the library to expand the program to a full-time project.

The main branch of the library houses the literacy office with satellite offices and learning centers located in Kiln, Waveland, Clermont Harbor, Diamondhead, Pearlinton and Dedeaux.

In other business, the restructuring of Chamber committees will be discussed. Members and guests are encouraged to attend.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Diamondhead AARP

Diamondhead American Association of Retired Persons Chapter 4228 meeting was May 2 with ten new members present. Mary Dillard, assistant state director, addressed the membership and advised of the following insurance seminars: May 26, Biloxi Community Center on East Howard Avenue. Representatives from AARP, Hartford and Prudential will review their plans on health and auto insurance.

June 27, 10 a.m. at Gulfport West Community Center, and June 29, 9 a.m. at Moss Point Library seminars on Catastrophic Health Care.

Guest speaker was Ellis Cuevas, editor and publisher of The Sea Coast Echo. The group enjoyed his historical review of "The wonderful World of Hancock County."

Travel plan for May 22 is a trip on the Pride of Mississippi. All are invited. The cruise is from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For information call Conrad Bourgeois, travel chairman.

The legislative committee mailed a letter to AARP's National Legislative Committee chairman protesting the payment plan for the new Medicare Catastrophic Health Care.

The next meeting is Sept. 5 at 3 p.m. at the Diamondhead Community Center.

Gulf Coast Writers Association

The May 25 meeting of the Gulf Coast Writers Association will mark the beginning of the group's second year. The first open meeting of GCWA was held in May 1988, after two months of work by a steering committee to formulate the framework for the organization, including a statement of purpose and bylaws.

Formed by and for writers, the professional, non-profit group is dedicated to inform, encourage and support persons interested in any form or field of writing. Regular activities include guest speakers, critiques, marketing and publishing information, contest and conference updates.

Culminating the first year's schedule was the writing contest, which drew more than 240 entries from the southeast, and the April conference attended by more than 100 writers.

Thursday's 7 p.m. meeting in Room 104 of Parker Hall at William Carey College on the Coast will include the election of new officers and the discussion of plans for the 1990 contest and conference, as well as other activities for the year. All members are urged to attend.

Membership is open to anyone interested in the craft of writing, published or non-published. For more information, call 1-832-2713 or 1-863-8190.

Pass Christian Garden Club

The award winning club last year headed by Mrs. Robert Doe, president, and Mrs. Anthony Heibel, Flower Show chairman, was the recipient of the following awards:

No. 17B, first place, Blue Rosette, for a standard flower show staged in a home, awarded by The National Council of Garden Clubs.

State 9C, certificate for a flower show staged in a home, and State 14B, certificate for a flower show schedule, was awarded by the State Garden Clubs of Mississippi. Second place, Red Ribbon, was awarded for the yearbook.

Professional Secretaries International

The Gulf Coast Chapter of Professional Secretaries International met Tuesday, May 9 at 6 p.m. at the Biloxi Mississippi Power District Office.

Officers for the 1989-1990 year were elected. They are Sharon Lowery, president; Avis O'Hara, vice president; Donna Corr, treasurer; Eileen Walker, corresponding secretary; and Rachel Herrington, recording secretary. Installation will be held at the June meeting.

The Gulf Coast chapter is sponsoring the newly-formed PSI NASA chapter in Bay St. Louis.

Secretaries interested in the organization may contact Sharon Lowery at 865-5993/832-6963 or Lee Bass at 374-0404/872-1096.

Meetings are conducted on the second Monday of each month in the executive dining room at the Gulf Coast Community Hospital, 180 DeBuys Road at 6 p.m.

Hancock County Homemakers

Hancock County Homemakers held a cultural arts fair on May 12 at Bay St. Louis Library. Many crafters brought beautiful articles to be judged. Individual booths were set up by homemakers, displaying various items using the theme, "Soar to Greater Heights."

The entire affair was presented by Mrs. Tommie Ziegeler, chairman, and Hancock County Homemakers. Door prizes were given, and monetary amounts awarded for best booths. Cookies and muffins were served to the many folks attending.

Demonstrations included basic quilting by Rose Gasser; serger techniques by Edna Harrington and machine smocking by Irma May.

GCCC lists graduates

Gulf Coast Community College graduated 126 students from the Perkinson Campus and 60 from the George County Occupational Training Center on Tuesday, May 9, in the A. L. May Memorial Stadium in Perkinson.

Sheila Nelson of Wiggins graduated with a perfect 4.0 average. She was among 13 students at the campus graduating with special honors (3.7 grade point average or higher).

Dr. Barry L. Mellinger, GCCC president, conferred degrees and diplomas at the ceremony. Dr. Clyde E. Strickland, campus vice president, presented graduates.

Local graduates include Hope L. Bonney and Mark Joseph Logan, both of Pass Christian; and Marjorie J. Michaud of Bay St. Louis.

Kiln VFW Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of Post 6285, Kiln, hosted a covered dish supper at their monthly meeting on Tuesday, May 16 at 7 p.m. which was opened by the president, Estelle Depreo.

The opening prayer was read by chaplain, Willietta Mauffray. The roll of officers was called and the Pledge of Allegiance was recited. The minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted.

The treasurer's report was read by Bessie Necaise and a transfer membership was accepted.

On Wednesday, June 14, the auxiliary will sponsor a cake and ice cream social at the Gulfport VA Hospital for Ward 62, followed by bingo.

Two eighth grade students at Hancock North Central School were presented with certificates for outstanding citizenship by the auxiliary.

Hugh Sanford, member of Post 6285 presented each member with a letter to be mailed to U.S. Rep. Larkin Smith and U.S. Sen. Trent Lott concerning the Department of Veterans Affairs.

A committee of four members of the auxiliary, Mabel Moran, Luvie Ladner, Bessie Necaise and Estelle Depreo were chosen to honor deceased veterans on Memorial Day by placing the American flag on graves at the Bayou Coco Cemetery and other cemeteries in the county.

Birthday cards for the month of May and June will be sent to the children of the National Home for Orphans.

Meeting adjourned with the closing prayer and next meeting will be June 20 at 7 p.m. at the post home.

Timber Ridge Social Club

The Timber Ridge Social Club met May 15 at the home of Billie Sorensen, with Maxine Costa presiding.

The treasurer reported that the club has 33 paid members. Hospitality chairman, Nell Holmes, reminded members that the purpose of the club is to foster friendship among the residents of Timber Ridge and asked that she be notified of new residents and illness or death among the members of the club.

Kitty Floyd, beautification chairman, will have a plan in time for fall planting.

Joanna Barber, exercise chairman, reported that groups have been walking and that by June the aquarobics will begin.

In absence of Mary Streeter, 'Bookers' chairman, Sarah McCarthy reported Eudora Welty's biographical sketches "One Writer's Beginnings" is book for discussion at the next meeting on June 5 at the home of Gene Blackwell.

Social chairman, Heather Thomas, thanked Maxine Costa for hosting the Kentucky Derby Party and said the next social will be a cookout at Treasure Point on July 29.

Neighborhood Watch literature was distributed to those present and members were reminded to be vigilant and report any suspicious happenings to the police.

The next meeting will be June 19 at Timber Ridge pool with Joanna Barber as hostess.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The regular ice cream and cake party, sponsored by the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139, was held Tuesday, May 16 at the Veterans Hospital in Gulfport for the veterans in Ward G41 and 42.

These veterans look forward to the treats each month, and Susan Piazza, VACS chairman, is pleased with the response and happiness that is expressed by the patients.

On Wednesday, May 17, the veterans from the Veterans Hospital were treated to a picnic on the 'farm' hosted by the auxiliary. Susan Piazza reported that there were 112 veterans as guests.

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club will have its monthly fundraising 'Fun and Games Day' 1 p.m. Wednesday, May 24 at Ruth Gallagher's home. Bonco will be played. Dessert and refreshments will be served.

Levy named Dean's scholar

Victor York Levy, a freshman at Washington and Lee University, has earned Dean's List status for the recently ended term.

Dean's List status at Washington and Lee represents a term grade average of at least 3.0 on a 4.33 scale.

He is the son of Dr. Winston and Alma Levy of River Ridge, La. and the grandson of Mrs. Leontine De Rocha of Bay St. Louis.

Reflections On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

'Ho-hum' isn't so bad...

At 6:25 in the morning, your mind is likely to be far away from the prospect of being broadsided, even when there is a car to be seen here and there. Actually, my vehicle was the only one in sight until my peripheral vision saw one at my immediate left.

"That car can't be about to ram me!" my mind was telling me.

Yet, there was a car indeed running past the stop sign, and it had my number written on it. The young driver, realizing his error at the last millisecond, swerved a bit to his right, perhaps accounting for the fact that the impact was just behind me and did not more than scrape and mash both left doors and the post.

Needless to say, I did not celebrate the 6:30 a.m. Mass at St. Stanislaus boys' school that morning. A bystander who had witnessed the entire incident informed the brothers about the mishap, then called the police to the scene.

I did not celebrate Mass, but I celebrated life on the spot, in that neither the young man nor I sustained any injury of any sort. Each time I looked at the scrapes and gaping dents on the car, I realized anew what a large difference a scant millimeter or so can make in something like a collision.

Adding a touch of irony, my car looks worse, but it is quite drivable. The other car looks less damaged, but had to be towed.

Lastly, there was the touch of humor. Two hours after I had returned to home base, a man began to phone me frantically, his anxiety rising with each failure to contact me. At length, he was thankfully able to link up with me on the telephone.

"Please call the headquarters of U.S.A. Today!" he pleaded. "Use this 800 number and tell them that it is really true that my delivery man ran into a priest while he was making his routes."

"I know they won't believe me," he continued with a semi-choke in his throat. "My van hit a deer near Wiggins two days ago. Then my delivery man's car had problems. In fact, he just got his car back. I don't know what the h... I mean heck, is going on. Please call them. They'll never believe me."

After sharing some bittersweet humor with him, I comforted him and assured him that I would call immediately.

Your mind races pretty fast and remains in high gear after an incident like that. I felt sorry for the young man, whose repeated comment was: "I guess I was just in a hurry."

Mostly, my mind dwelled on just how precarious and tenuous our hold is on life, even in a quiet, little town at a sleepy hour. We have no guarantee of the next minute, let alone another hour. It is imperative that we keep thanking God for the present moment.

Next: my mind kept moving about on the subject of how ho-hum most of our life seems to be. But the added dimension to the thought is just how fortunate we are that most of our life does indeed tend to be ho-hum, rather than frenetic and dangling.

In spite of the disastrous appearance of the car, in spite of the stress of the ordeal, there was a deep sense of appreciation which grew out of knowing that the only chassis hurt was not ours but the car's, and that, hopefully, we would return to a routine, ho-hum day which promised us no more than the simple joys of living.

Ho-hum isn't so bad, after all. What's wrong with being at ease, being at peace, and being able to talk about the weather and to observe the slow-moving changes of early spring?

Thank God for so much of the ho-hum in our lives that we can be relaxed enough to enjoy our lives to the full.

ON ETV

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS

A ten-year 'holy war' among Southern Baptists, the largest Protestant denomination in the United States, is the subject of 'The Battle for the Bible,' an encore presentation airing on 'Moyers: A Second Look' at 10 p.m., Tuesday, May 23, on Mississippi ETV.

The report examines how an effort to protect the Bible from analysis of modern scholarship has escalated into a political crusade by fundamentalists to capture control of the denomination.

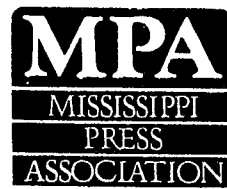

"The stakes of this 'holy war' are not only theological," Moyers says in the broadcast, "they are also political. The fundamentalist party wants to make one view of the Bible—their view—the test of religious and political truth.

For Baptists, that's radical. For America, it's political dynamite, because how Baptists read the Bible affects their votes at the ballot box—and influences such issues as school prayer, abortion and foreign policy."

'The Battle of the Bible' was first broadcast in December 1987 as part of the 'Moyers: God and Politics' series.

HOW'S YOUR HEART AND BLOOD VESSELS?

People grow older - arteries clog, oxygen delivery slows, vision problems arise, arthritis and heart problems appear, and memory deteriorates. What can be done?

Chelation is helping many suffering from the above conditions. Chelation, especially before and certainly after cardiac surgery, keeps the vascular system functioning better, thereby lessening the change for further circulatory and other disease problems.

Just what is Chelation and how does it work? Chelation is from the Greek word CHELE, which means to claw. Chelation is the utilization of specific chemical agents that grab and bind metals, cholesterol and plaque formations within the blood vessels. It is the chemical "Roto Rooter" cleaning calcium obstructions from the 60,000 miles of large and small blood vessels. It cleans out vessels technically too small to be operated on. It takes up to three hours per session and several treatments are necessary. The procedure is painless, results are excellent and the treatment has been around for years. It is widely used in Europe. The treatment is by intravenous injections. There are several excellent books about Chelation. One entitled "Chelation Therapy" by John Parks Trowbridge, M.D. and Morton Walker, D.P.M., provides excellent information. The cost per treatment is from $95-$110.

We use Chelation to treat specific conditions such as both osteo and rheumatoid arthritis, strokes, lead in blood, cholesterol and plaque within the blood vessels, certain types of cancer, pre and post operative cardiac conditions, especially after bi-pass surgery and acute heart attacks. As stated previously, we use specific chemical agents in chelation, each tailored for the peticular condition being treated.

Daniels interns at state crime lab

There is a new face at the Mississippi Crime Laboratory in Jackson. Rhonda A. Daniels, a senior at the Mississippi School for the Deaf, is presently polishing her business and office skills at the laboratory through a training program funded by Vocational Rehabilitation Services, a division of the Mississippi Department of Rehabilitation Services.

Daniels, 18, of Pass Christian, has been serving as a data entry technician and secretary at the laboratory since March and will complete her training at the end of this month. She will graduate from the MSD with a major in business and office practice on May 26.

Daniels, who's wages have been furnished by VRS while in training, received the MSD typewriting award in 1987.

Cucumbers designated the vegetable of 1989

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

The National Garden Bureau has designated the cucumber as the vegetable of the year for 1989. A fact sheet on cucumbers containing a lot more information than actually is needed to grow them has been sent out by the bureau marking the year of the cucumber.

For example, grown in its native country, India, for almost 3,000 years, cucumbers are one of the top five most popular garden vegetables. Composed of 96 percent water, cucumbers contain only 16 calories a cup.

There are several different types of cucumbers and many varieties within these types. Probably the most common, best liked and widely grown cucumbers are the pickling types.

Pickling cucumbers are blocky in shape and not a uniform green color. Most are light green or whitish near the blossom end. The spines on the fruit may be black or white, though you're not likely to notice this little difference.

Slicing cucumbers are longer than the pickling kind, and the skin is a uniform dark green from end to end. Greenhouse-type cucumbers are long, slender, have a thin skin and are seedless. All three types of cucumbers can be used fresh in salads, but the slicing and greenhouse types aren't used for making pickles.

Tropical in origin, cucumbers love warm weather and must have plenty of moisture to grow and produce. Plant stress resulting from insufficient soil moisture leads to odd-shaped cucumbers and little or no production.

Years ago all cucumber plants had separate male and female flowers, but they were on the same plant. The plants started out producing just male flowers, grew into a stage where there were both male and female flowers and finally reached a point where all the flowers were female.

The female flower has the same bright yellow petals as the male flower, but the petals are attached to the end of a small cucumber (the ovary). The petals of the male flower are attached to a short thin stem. The male flower has no ovary or pollen receiving parts, but it has pollen producing anthers. The female flower has an ovary and pollen receiving parts but no pollen producing anthers.

Bees are responsible for carrying pollen from the male to the female flower and this is one reason for caution in applying insecticides to control insect pests. Many bee visits are necessary for a female flower to be well pollinated.

Without pollination seeds fail to develop and the small ovary, in all but the few seedless types, fails to develop. In the seedless types, strange as it seems, pollination must be prevented since it results in misshapen cucumbers.

Plant breeders have had a regular heyday with cucumbers once a plant that developed only female flowers was discovered. This enabled the easy production of hybrids where hand pollination had been required.

In case you are wondering how a plant that produces only female flowers and no pollen can be propagated from year to year, plant breeders again discovered the answer. By spraying an all female plant with a certain plant hormone the plant produced a few pollen producing male flowers that permitted pollination and plant maintenance by seed.

Bush-type cucumber plants are adapted for growing in pots, containers and limited space gardens. The normal vining plants can be trellised and adapted to small gardens. Clean, straight cucumbers are some benefits of keeping the vines off the ground.

Frequent and thorough harvests and absolute musts with all cucumbers. Developing seeds in large cucumbers signal the plant to slow down in production, so no fruit can be allowed to get large and old or the plants stop developing new cucumbers. All cucumber plants need to be harvested about three times a week once they start producing.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By Lee Taylor

Vegetable gardens need maintenance

Vegetable gardens are really taking off in the county. The heavy rain fall we received a couple of weeks ago hurt some gardens. Too much water at one time saturates the soil and robs oxygen from the plants.

In many of our areas of the county it's better to plant on raised beds to keep plants higher and out of standing water.

Tomato plants should be blooming at this time and I recommend starting a fungicide program now. Any fungicide labeled for tomatoes should be used and applied every 7 to 10 days.

Corn should be ready for a side dressing with ammonia nitrate. This fertilizer should be applied when corn is approximately knee high. Each corn plant should receive around two tablespoons of ammonia nitrate.

Insects should be scouted for on a daily basis. Be on the look-out for beetles, stink bugs and squash bugs.

If you find insects you cannot identify, bring them by the office and we'll help you.

Tent caterpillars are showing upon many shrubs and trees. These small caterpillars gather at forks of trees and build large web. The web serves as protection for the pests as they venture out to feed on new foliage.

These caterpillars can be found in apple, crabapple, wild cherry, pecan, ash, poplar and other ornamental trees. Control these pests with label rates of Bacillus thuringiensis, diazinon, malathion or sevin.
